

Ashdown Paper Mill Discussed

Bill Arnold — Henry Haynes Photo with Star Camera

Background information and some of the legal details in connection with the approval of the $46 million dollar Act 9 bond issue to build a paper mill at Ashdown, were related to Hope Kiwanis club yesterday by Texarkana Attorney Bill Arnold, special counsel for the City of Ashdown.

Target date for completion of the mill is November 1, 1968, when the lease-rentals begin, Mr. Arnold pointed out. The mill will employ from 450 to 500 persons and will be located about two miles south of Ashdown.

Millwood Dam will supply the water which will be purchased from the Southwest Arkansas Water District. The mill will be owned and operated by Nekoosa Edwards Paper Company of Wisconsin.

Of significant interest to the Kiwanians was the statement by Mr. Arnold that the vast timber supplies in Southwest Arkansas, East Texas and South-eastern Oklahoma, was sufficient to furnish four other paper mills of similar size.

The program was arranged by Kiwanian Al Graves. Guest included Morris Cooper, Rev. Bud Chatwick, and Paul Caber. The Rev. Mr. Jerry Schleiff, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church was introduced as a new member.

Cancer Study Could Bring the Answers

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Government researchers say they hope to launch a study of perhaps 20,000 American women for at least 10 years—to try to answer a vital question:

Is there any long-term danger—such as the possibility of developing cancer—in the prolonged use of oral birth control pills or mechanical contraceptives?

The pills are being used by an estimated 5½ million women in the United States alone.

And the government, represented by the Public Health Service's National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, has taken the first steps to explore whether a massive, controlled study among women using "The Pill," or other artificial contraceptives, could be carried out.

The institute, one of the National Institutes of Health, has awarded a contract to the District of Columbia Public Health Department for a pilot study.

The study—just getting under way—follows by more than a year testimony by Dr. James A. Shannon, director of the National Institutes of Health, before a congressional committee, that until the question of any health hazard is settled, millions of women may be taking a chance by using the controversial pills.

However, neither Shannon, nor any other governmental health official has recommended that use of the pills be curbed, and various scientific groups and individuals—including a special committee of the World Health Organization have declared that:

In the 10 years since the pills were developed—including five since the first ones were placed on the American market — no evidence has been produced to link them with specified diseases concerning which some investigators have voiced fears.

These diseases include cancer of the breast, the cervix, and the endometrium (lining of the womb); also thrombophlebitis (blood clots in the legs) and cerebral strokes.

Indeed, Dr. Gregory Pincus, Worcester, Mass., developer of the pills, said in a recent report to the National Academy of Sciences that various studies by other investigators indicate the pills appear to be potentially protective against both cancer of the breast and cervix.

Pincus also said there's justification to explore the possibility that long-term use of the pills might help protect women from developing atherosclerosis, the form of hardening of the arteries which many doctors suspect as a possible contributor to heart attacks.

Rowell has been assigned by the city manager, John Murphy, to rid Raton of 100 to 200 skunks after reports from the New Mexico Department of Health that some might be infected with rabies.

If we will but listen attentively, we can hear in all religions a groaning of the spirit, a struggle to utter the unutterable, a longing after the Infinite, a love of God. — Max Muller said it.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Don't believe that story about millionaire socialite Bruce Wayne's father being murdered by vicious criminals. Everybody in television knows that "Bat-man's" real father is the veteran film and television executive who put the show on the air.

His name is William Dozier and he is fiercely protective about the season's most talked-about series, but he does find it isn't all laughing on the way to the bank.

"I know now how Joan Fontaine, to whom I was once married, felt when she was invariably told by new acquaintances how much they had loved her in 'Rebecca' as if it were the only thing she ever made," he said.
"Nobody remembers anything else I've done, either."

He was in New York to talk about some of his other projects, including two new ones for next season, "The Tammy Grimes Show" and "The Green Hornet." But the conversation kept jumping over to "Batman."

"Yes, Batman does drive fast," he said, "but he usually abides by the rules of the road except when in pursuit of criminals or hurrying to the scene of a crime. Then he functions as a law officer and must cut corners and occasionally cross the center line. But he has spoken to Robin about the importance of fastening seat belts."

As for the hapless Gotham
City police department, Dozier says that not a single complaint has been lodged about the hand-wringing police chief who apparently never leaves the side of his commissioner.

"The Green Hornet," taken from an old radio series, will have a central character who will not be as bizarre as Batman.

"He could pass for an ordinary person," said Dozier, "except that at the peak of a caper he will be wearing a midnight green topcoat and a very small mask."

Aside from that tiny idiosyn-crasy, it will be a crime show in the classic form with each week's dastardly villain snuffed out at each episode's end.

ABC has announced it plans two-hour dramatic shows monthly on Sunday nights during the 1967-68 season or perhaps earlier. Among other stage plays it hopes to adapt to television are "A Streetcar Named Desire," "You Can't Take It
With You," and "Diary of Anne Frank."

Earlier CBS and NBC had announced some drama socials, a new movement that seems to have started with "Death of a Salesman" and its fine reception by public and critics.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — She is making a television series in Universal City. He is filming a Western movie at Kanab, Utah.
Is this the way to start a marriage?

"Naturally we don't like being apart," says green-eyed Kathryn Hays, who became the wife of Glenn Ford in March. "But we realized the hazards of having two acting careers, and agreed before we married that we would make sacrifices if we had to."

"Glenn knows how much my career means to me. I've worked too hard to give it all up now."

So Kathy remains here to star in the new NBC series, "The Road West," while her husband is galloping over the Utah range in "The Long Ride Home." It might be added that the pair did no trush into marriage. Both had been wed previously, and they waited until two years after they had first met at a Hollywood dinner party.

Both had children — she an 8-year-old daughter, he a grown son by his marriage to Eleanor Powell.

"That was another consideration — my daughter Sherri," said Kathy. "She and Glenn spent a lot of time together before we decided on marriage.
Fortunately, she adores him,
and vice versa."

A practical girl, this Kathy Hays. She has been supporting herself during most of the time since she left junior college in Joliet, Ill., her home town. Her first job was as a department store model, then she advanced to television commercials in Chicago.

After a session as one of New York's highest-paid models, she moved into acting and worked most of the television series in New York and Hollywood, plus four Broadway shows. Now she is a regular in "The Road West."

Actor and Wife Are Reconciled

HELEN HELP US!

— by Helen Bottel —

Greater Trust Has No Husband

Dear Helen: When I read about the pure little PTA conventioner who lost her hotel key but kept her honor, I chuckled, knowing these dumb circumstantial evidence things DO happen. Here's my story, and I might add my husband never doubted me one moment — after the first shock of surprise left his face.

My ever-lovin' called to tell me he was coming home early, and start packing for a long weekend at the 104ake. Which I happily did.

I was just ready to step in the shower when the front doorbell rang, so I ran to let my husband in, not even thinking of a towel

Not even thinking, Period!
"Hurry up and come in," I called from behind the opened door. Which the SALESMAN started to do, just as my HUS-BAND walked through our back entrance!

Believe me, I blushed all over!

Try and top THAT one. — Nudist No More
Dear NNM: It's topless! And Tom gets my nomination for a one-man "trust" company. — H.

Dear Helen: What do you afraid of the school board in his small town that he puts his whisky in bleach bottles? — On To Him

Dear On: At school or at his home? If the former, he should make haste to the A.A. If the latter, he'd better watch it or the family wash will smell like the still blew up.

Faced with a school board this strict, a smart teacher would either go on the wagon or pack his wagon and go elsewhere. — H.

Dear Helen: Dumb Females!
My wife brings home things we can easily do without because it was "such a bargain." She says this is "looking ahead," because we WILL need them someday. I say maybe so and maybe not.

I still don't see much use for travel iron when we only go on camping trips where electricity isn't. — Bill Who Also Wonders

What's with Dames?

Dear Bill: Maybe she's trying to tell you something. Like all camp, no vamp (remember that ancient word?) gives Jill a chill.

It's been said that a man will pay $2.00 for a $1.00 article, if he needs it, and a woman will pay $1.00 for a $2.00 article, even if she doesn't. Does that answer your question? — We're female, that's all. — H.

Dear Helen: Would you please point out to wives that husbands have a lot on their minds and therefore can't remember every special day that comes along?
If women would just write their birthdays, anniversaries, etc., etc., on a piece of paper and stick the notice on their husband's shaving mirror about 3 days before the day comes along, they'd save a lot of "You don't love me!" tears. My wife spends half her time feeling hurt, seems like — Trying Male

Dear T. M.: Your idea sounds like a winner. I've always said a woman who is careful not to mention her special days (birthdays, anniversaries, etc.) then goes into a decline because no-one remembers them is junior grade masochist. She's just plain looking for ways to be hurt so she can enjoy suffering. (Or perhaps enjoy seeing others squirn.) — H.

Orioles Down Yanks Behind Stu Miller

By HAL BOCK

A funny thing is happening to Stu Miller on the way to his first no-hitter.

He keeps running out of innings.

Baltimore's abominable slow man with his fifth game of the season Tuesday night, finishing up with three perfect innings as the Orioles rallied for a 2-1 victory over New York.

That gave the 38-year-old relief specialist a string of 6 2/3 hitless innings in his last three games.

Miller's appearances. Sure, Sandy Koufax does it faster, but speed never has been one of Miller's specialties. They like to kid Miller about his limited repertoire of pitches. One seems slower than the next. Then they try to hit him and it's no laughing matter.

Actually, it may surprise American League hitters, but Miller claims to have developed a fast ball in his old age. "I've never been a fireballer," he admits modestly, "but my fast ball is a lot better now than when I was younger. My arm seems to get stronger every year."

The veteran right-hander, who was 14-7 last year, has appeared in 23 of Baltimore's 58 games and has finished 14. He has seven saves to go with his five victories.

Baltimore's victory combined with Cleveland's split against Boston lifted the Orioles into undisputed possession of first place. Cleveland beat the Red Sox 8-7 in the first game as Fred Whitfield drove in five runs but dropped the nightcap 1-7 with George Scott hammering two homers for Boston.

Elsewhere, Minnesota tripped Kansas City 6-3, Washington ended an eight-game losing streak by beating Detroit 3-2, and California clouted Chicago 10-4.

In the National League, St. Louis ripped New York 9-2, San Francisco downed Chicago 11-7, Atlanta whipped Philadelphia 1-6, Cincinnati shut out Pittsburgh 3-0 and Houston blanked Los Angeles 3-0.

Astros Defeat Koufax, Didn't Need Gentile

The Squeeze Was on Davis

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sandy Koufax finally lost a game, and part of his problem was Jim Gentile's broken bat.

Gentile's bat wasn't there, nor was Gentile, as Houston defeated Los Angeles and Koufax 3-0 Tuesday night.

But Gentile's replacement was, and he was a major factor in Koufax' first loss since April 30, a loss which snapped his eight-game winning streak.

Chuck Harrison, who took Gentile's spot on the Astro roster when the volatile first baseman was banished to the minor league, rapped a bases-loaded, two-run single in the sixth inning that broke up a scoreless battle between Koufax and young Larry Dierker.

Gentile was ordered to Oklahoma City of the Pacific Coast League following his outburst against umpire Ed Vargo Sunday.

In the sixth inning of the game against Chicago, Gentile slammed his bat against home plate and broke it. After Vargo ordered him out of the game, he picked up the bat and flipped it toward the plate. It bounced high in the air, just missing the umpire.

"I just lost my head," Gentile explained afterward.

He also lost his place with the Astros, and Harrison found himself in it.

The 25-year-old Texan played in 13 games for Houston at the start of the season, then was sent to Oklahoma City for more seasoning.

As far as the Astros are concerned, he came out just right.

His crucial single helped the 19-year-old Dierker to his first major league shutout and the Astros to their first victory over Koufax since April 14, 1963.

The game also marked the first time the Dodgers had been shut out since last Aug. 8 and the first time they had been blanked by a right-hander at home since Sept. 27, 1964.

In other National League games, San Francisco out-slugged Chicago 1-7, Cincinnati blanked Pittsburgh 3-0, Atlanta whipped Philadelphia 11-6 and St. Louis crushed New York 9-2.

In the American League, Baltimore edged New York 2-1, Cleveland nipped Boston 8-7 before losing 1-7, Washington trimmed Detroit 3-2, California whipped Chicago 10-4 and Minnesota defeated Kansas City 6-3.

Willie McCovey's two-run homer in the seventh inning, the fifth homer of the day for San Francisco, snapped a 7-7 tie with the Cubs. Chuck Estrada made his NL debut as a starter but departed after giving up first-inning, two-run homers to Willie Mays and Tom Haller.

Hopeful That Surveyor 1 Will Survive

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's efficient eye on the moon, Surveyor 1, will be permanently blind if its electric heart fails to survive the super-cold lunar night, scientists report.

Surveyor, the brilliantly successful first attempt by the United States to land a spacecraft gently on the moon, was engulfed by the lunar night Tuesday after sending more than 10,000 high quality photos.

The night holds the peril of temperatures near 260 degrees below zero Fahrenheit—cold enough to freeze and perhaps destroy Surveyor's battery, its heart. Lunar night is two weeks long in earth time.

In the last rays of sunlight Tuesday, Surveyor recorded a vivid show, picturing bright, high ridges accented by deep shadows, an eerie, almost surrealistic display.

The most spectacular shot, perhaps, was a picture showing the elongated shadow of the spacecraft cast a great distance across the lunar surface.

Other pictures, made as the sun dipped slowly over the horizon, showed a faint glow on the horizon which scientists said might indicate the moon has a light atmosphere. The gas, they said, could come from the sun or even from the moon's interior.

Ramadan, ninth month of the Islamic lunar year, is set aside each year by Muslims for fasting.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Lamar Hunt, the founder of the American Football League, had just finished relaying the terms of the peace merger to Al Davis, the young commissioner.

Davis was apoplectic. He told Hunt and his committee (Ralph Wilson of Buffalo and Billy Sullivan of Boston) what he thought of the deal.

"Tell him, Lamar," said Wilson, "the last provision."

"Oh yes," continued Hunt, "there's only going to be one commissioner over both leagues—Pete Rozelle."

In front of Davis sat the two men most responsible for landing him in the driver's seat of the AFL just two months before. They had sponsored him for the position.

When they were appointed the peace negotiating committee Davis had to concur. When they sold him down the river, to end the pro football war, Davis was free to tell them what he thought of them. He did. He also let them know that under no circumstances would he stay on in a secondary position.

"I feel bad about that," said Wilson later.

Hunt had gone into the final negotiations with a firm agreement the AFL would insist that both Davis and Rozelle remain as commissioners of their respective leagues and a third, impartial party would be appointed to resolve all future conflicts.

When he came out, sans Davis, it illustrated the difference in the way the two leagues operated. The AFL commissioner had no real say in the bargaining that led to the most significant deal in professional football history. He was kept apprised and could suggest, but the owners carried the ball all the way.

In the NFL, however, Pete Rozelle called all the shots, via Tex Schramm, president of the Dallas Cowboys. This made an interesting parlay. Schramm, as general manager of the Rams, hired Rozelle for his first pro football job, as the club publicity man. Rozelle's elevation to commissioner in 1960 coincided with Schramm's arrival in Dallas to be general manager of the new expansion Cowboys. They're close friends, and Pete knows how to be discreet and a good negotiator.

Pitting Schramm against Hunt renewed an old rivalry, for Lamar's Kansas City Chiefs were originally located in Dallas, against the Cowboys—and Lamar lost that battle, too, when he left town.

"The merger," said Tex the other day, "would not have been possible without Pete." I'll say. Rozelle laid down the ground rules for pro football peace, and they were followed almost all the way. Pete might even have acted as the negotiator himself, except that he felt he might become emotionally involved, whereas sitting behind the scenes he could evaluate the situation objectively and actually be in a stronger position to exercise his influence. You know he had to come out of it on top.

So Pete now stands as probably the single strongest man in all of sports. There's no doubt pro football will thrive under the merger, although a little of the tang of competition has gone out of it.

Rozelle has a corporate mind and already projects a study of pro football to see what direction the "new" National Football League will take when the four seasons leading to complete merger under one roof are up. "CBS is in the midst of one right now," he explained.

In the meantime, his erstwhile rival, Davis, won't suffer. The merger violated his long-term contract so he'll have no trouble getting his money, which is rumored to be $60,000 for the next five years.

He could go back to the Oakland Raiders if he wanted to. A prominent owner in the Western Division of the NFL has coveted Davis as a general manager for some time.

His big secret is that he wasn't able to complete the campaign he started for equality and which he's convinced the AFL would have won if his owners hadn't capitulated when the older league flattered them by finally recognizing they existed.

"Like old Doug (MacArthur)," muttered Davis after the coup d'etat, "I'll be back."

But without a war.

Fire Destroys 60,000 Acres in California

By HOWARD C. HEYN
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A California conifer, soaring high above the coastal mountains, could view this scene today:

Endless miles of rocky, brush-covered ridges, studded with mile-high peaks and slashed by deep ravines, all of it shimmering under a searing sun.

Cut off from the 20th century by lack of roads, it is a wilderness of isolated grandeur, haunt of deer, black bear, puma—and the vanishing condor.

In its heart is an undulating sea of flames.

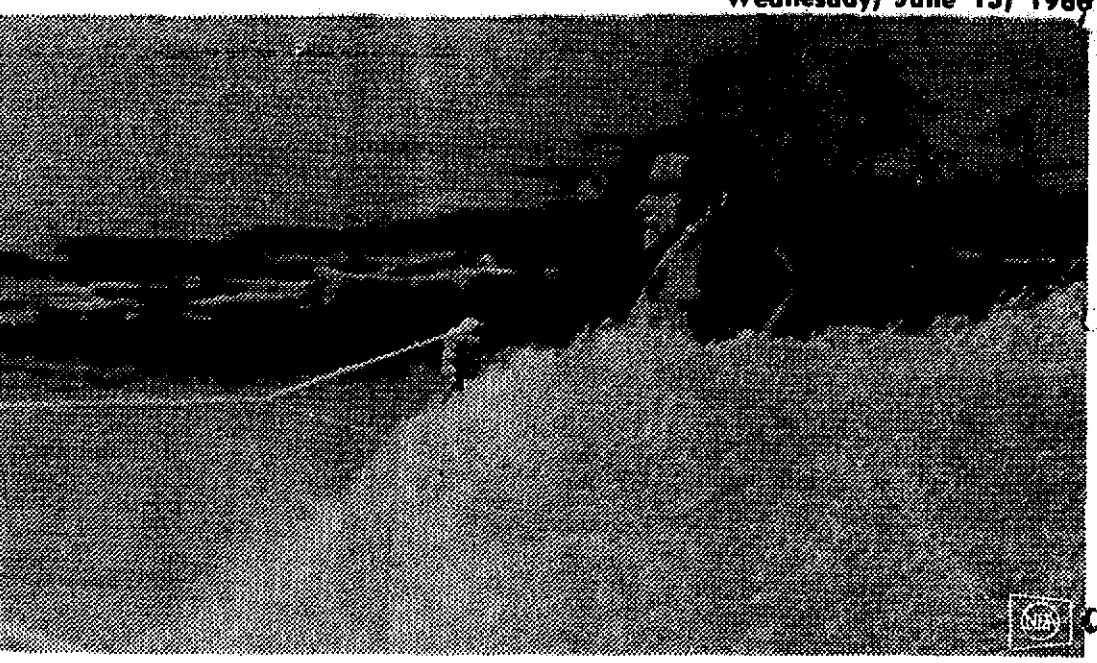

A plane crash last Saturday set this scene. Two died in the crash. Within moments fire flashed across the rugged, almost inaccessible slopes of the San Raphael Mountains northwest of this scenic resort on the Pacific.

For firemen this is a job as tough as they come. One veteran firefighter called it one of the worst spots to fight a blaze which, in the first four days, swept across 60,000 acres.

More days—crew bosses won't estimate how many lie ahead before containment can be expected.

Residents of more than 450 villages in the Chetach District were reported living on their rooftops, fending off hundreds of poisonous snakes driven from their holes by the water.

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Brigham Young University says 14 of its 800 faculty members have six or more children, led by athletic trainer C. Rodney Kimball who has 14.

SUPER SKIER—Chuck Stearns cut a heavy wake, hitting more than 100 m.p.h. on water skis. His goal is to hit 120 m.p.h., which would set a new world's record.

High Speed Water Skiing

No Sport for the Timid

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (NEA) — Chuck Stearns' goal seems modest by speed standards in the Space Age.

He only wants to hit 120 m.p.h.

On water skis. Which is something akin to landing on the moon if you're an astronaut, or going 700 miles per hour on the Bonneville Salt Flats if you're Art Arfons.

Stearns plans to reach his goal here on June 18-19 in the National Open Boat and Ski Championships on the Colorado River.

Actually, to set a new world's water-skiing speed record, Stearns, of Bellflower, Calif., has to reach only 118 m.p.h., which would top the mark set by Butch Peterson of South Pasadena, Calif., in 1963.

By shooting for 120, Stearns figures he'll have an even better chance of breaking the record.

Present holder of the World Water Ski Slalom title, Stearns, 27, will be towed by a 150-mile-an-hour drag boat.

What's it like to be on water skis at those speeds?

"You just hold tight," Stearns said, "and tell your stomach to get back in its right place."

Blythville Golfer Runs Into Trouble

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Dorothy Germain of Blythville ran into trouble Tuesday in the first round of the Trans-Mississippi Women's Golf Tournament there, but regained her poise in time to advance in the championship flight.

Miss Germain, a 19-year-old Monticello, Mo. (Jr.) College student, beat Marcella Rose of Kilkwood, Mo., 1-up.

"Outside of a few holes I played all right," Miss Germain said. "I guess I shot about 3 or 4 over par, which was better than yesterday."

Miss Germain had reached the championship flight Monday when she made a 3-foot putt for a par-on-the-second hole of a sudden-death playoff with two others. She had an 83 for the round.

She became the only Arkansas left in the championship flight after two others lost first-round matches Tuesday.

Miss Germain has seen little of the state. She says her parents moved to Blythville last September about the time she went to college.

Hopes Policy in Golf Play to Continue

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Nancy Roth Syms of Hollywood, Fla., the winningest player on the women's amateur circuit this year, hopes her policy of playing one match at a time continues to prove successful.

Mrs. Syms rolled to a 4 and 3 triumph over Jan Ferraris of San Francisco, Calif., Tuesday in the first round of the Trans-Mississippi Women's Amateur Golf Tournament here.

"I think I played a little better than yesterday," Mrs. Syms said, comparing her round to the 77 she had in Monday's qualifying.

"But it had to be better today," she added. "She's (Miss Ferraris) a good player."

Mrs. Syms is seeking her seventh title this year and a berth on the U.S. Curtis Cup team which will be selected before another amateur tournament is played.

Warsaw Pact Nations Divided

MOSCOW (AP) — Warsaw Pact nations are reported seriously divided over Romanian demands that each member have a greater voice in decisions of the Soviet-dominated alliance.

Informed East European sources said Sunday that the foreign ministers have extended their meeting here. They began a week ago and originally were expected to end last Wednesday.

In East Berlin, the Warsaw Pact commander and defense ministers from the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany met Sunday to discuss "mutually interesting questions," the official East German news agency ADN reported.

More Troops to Viet Nam This Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands more Army infantrymen are expected to arrive in South Viet Nam this summer to intensify search-and-destroy operations which already may have thrown the Communists off balance.

There was speculation that elements of an additional Army infantry division may be included in the 18,000-man U.S. reinforcement which Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has approved for movement in coming weeks.

The Army now has three full divisions and two brigades in action in Viet Nam. Marines have two divisions committed to the war.

It appeared likely that an additional Army division would be introduced into the Viet Nam theater in stages, perhaps a brigade at a time.

Meanwhile, there are indications that the Army will beef up its artillery in the war theater. Helicopter-hauled artillery has become standard in ground operations against the Communists.

Skeptics had questioned the effectiveness of howitzers and other such weapons in a jungle-type war, but these doubts were dispelled when artillery played a telling role in defeating enemy forces in the Ia Drang battle along the Cambodian border last fall.

Lawyers Declare Faubus Erred

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus erred when he cited high jury verdicts as a cause of a recent automobile insurance rate increase, the president of the American Trial Lawyers Association said Sunday.

Joseph Kelner of New York City, a speaker at the Arkansas Bar Association meeting, said judges can reduce excessive damage judgments.

Kelner said the increases were due to greater number of accidents, higher costs of medical and hospital care and "especially the increased cost of automobile repair."

Corporation Tax Bill Up 25 Per Cent

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — This is tax day for the nation's corporations. And the bill is hefty 25 per cent higher than last June 15. One way or another, big and little business firms must fork up more than $8 billion today for the U.S. Treasury.

Higher interest rates and a scarcity of money available for borrowing will squeeze many companies.

Many of the largest corporations probably have long since prepared to meet the tax collector. But bankers say some of the smaller firms have been having trouble finding money to borrow.

The bigger tax bite this year than last stems from the U.S. Treasury's new collection rules more than it does from the larger profits on which to pay the levy.

Formerly corporations paid 18 per cent of the year's estimated income tax in the first half of the year. Last March Congress passed a Tax Adjustment Act to boost first-half payments to 24 per cent.

Corporations paid part of last year's remaining income tax March 15, and 12 per cent of this year's estimated tax April 15. Another 12 per cent is due today, along with the final payment for 1965's taxes.

The purpose of the new law was to put corporations on a pay-as-you-go basis by the end of next year — something like the withholding tax on personal paychecks. In the long run corporation's total tax bills remain the same. But getting closer to a pay-as-you-go schedule is putting a special, if temporary, squeeze on corporate treasuries this year.

It's also putting a squeeze on many banks. The demand for loans has been soaring with the big spurt in economic activity. The demand for tax loans is just that much more of a burden to banks hard pressed to find lendable funds.

And some of the funds the banks have built up will be drawn down by the tax deadline. These are the Certificates of Deposit which corporations have bought from the banks.

Nikita Fades Back Into Obscurity

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — A chunky, bald man, showing his 72 years, drove up to a Moscow voting place in a chauffeur-driven car with his wife and a bodyguard, cast his ballot, and left without cheers or catcalls.

Sunday was the first time Nikita Khrushchev, living on a pension now, had appeared in public since he voted last year. He is as close to being anonymous as the present Soviet leaders can make him.

Being forced to live out his life in obscurity, since the new bosses bounced him as the No. 1 man in October 1964, may seem harsh. But almost certainly it is more than Stalin would have permitted.

That he can go on living at all after losing in the Soviet power struggle is as good testimony as any to the change he wrought in the Soviet Union and, as a result, in the world.

Thus his present obscurity is only temporary, even though it lasts his lifetime. But his exact place in history is not at all certain since it will depend upon what eventually happens to communism.

He was not an innovator in the field of tangibles, like Stalin who drove and dragged the Soviet Union into the atomic and space age and, at frightful cost in lives and luxury, gave it industry.

Khrushchev's contribution, over the 10 years in which he dominated most of communism, was in the field of the spirit, which may seem an odd word to associate with a man so earthy, tempestuous and unpredictable.

Stalin was totally dedicated to the triumph of the Communist state, no matter the cost to the people in it. Khrushchev rendered such Red fanaticism ludicrous and obscene when he revealed Stalin as a monster and murderer.

Khrushchev didn't lessen the importance of the state. But he made life and people more important than Stalin could have imagined or tolerated by relaxing the cold war inside and outside of the Soviet Union.

Inside, the people, harassed less by the secret police, could breathe a little freer, could express a little discontent, even though timidly, while the state paid more attention to their needs and their comforts.

Outside, there were thunderclaps. Red China broke with the Kremlin. Unrest bubbled through the satellites and is not ended. There was an uprising in Poland. The revolt in Hungary was too much for Khrushchev, who crushed it. Communist parties in the non-Communist world were affected and Reds everywhere examined their old attitudes or adopted new ones.

Khrushchev sometimes stumbled, sometimes took wild chances and lost on them, as when he put missiles in Cuba. Yet through it all he melted the cold war a great deal, tried to get along better with the West, signed the limited nuclear test ban treaty and lived to see his successors follow much of his policy.

If he had been Stalin he would have been prepared when his friends, or enemies, turned on him and threw him out. He would have crushed them.

They accused him of mishandling the dispute with China, of mismanaging the Soviet economy, of bungling the Cuban crisis and even of supporting a "cult of personality."

He probably was a poor manager but at his particular moment in Soviet history he gave his people something that would have been inevitable sooner or later after the bleak and homicidal years of Stalin.

He gave them a strong change of spirit which his successors inherited. They Russian people are better off than they ever were, the split with China is deeper, and the cold war is still muted.

Ginners Can Get Federal Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cotton ginners affected by a cut in cotton production this year would be able to get emergency loans from the government under a bill introduced in Congress Tuesday by Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C.

Cooley said the bill would authorize the agriculture secretary to make loans to first processors of agricultural commodities in any area where he finds an economic emergency exists as a result of a government program.

Cooley, House Agriculture Committee chairman, said the ginner will bear the "heaviest burden of essential government action in cutting back cotton production." Cooley said only about 11 million acres of the normal 16 million acres allotted to cotton was allowed for cotton planting this year.

Medical Services Cost 7 Per Cent

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Americans today spend nearly seven per cent of their budget on medical services each year, compared to three per cent in the 1930s, federal Judge Oren Harris said here Sunday.

Harris told the 158 graduates of the University of Arkansas Medical Center at spring commencement exercises that needs for increased medical facilities also have increased.

Faculty gold key awards, the highest given by the school, went to Dr. Carl Matthews of Sedalia, Mo., in the School of Medicine, Miss Linda Joyce Owen of Smackover in the School of Nursing and alter Hubbard of Texarkana in the School of Pharmacy.

Highly Paid Singer in Free Concert

LONDON (AP) — Barbra Streisand, one of the world's highest paid songstresses, gave a free 20-minute performance Sunday night in London before a celebrity-studded audience in the U.S. Embassy's 200-seat theater.

The occasion was the first Festival of American Arts and Humanities.

Miss Streisand, currently appearing in London's West End in the Broadway musical "Funny Girl," sang a medley from George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Many Factors Play Part in Asthma

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Although asthma has long been recognized as an allergic disease, other factors appear to play a part in its cause. Their exact role is not altogether clear. For example, emotional stress, although rarely if ever the sole cause, may trigger an attack and long continued emotional stress may aggravate what would otherwise be a mild case.

Some asthmatic persons appear to have a defect of their heat-regulating mechanism. The surface temperature of their palms is lower than that of normal persons and after immersion in cold water the temperature returns to the preimmersion level more slowly.

This may account for the fact that a sudden cold spell often precipitates asthmatic attacks in these persons. Another possibility is that, with the onset of cold weather, indoor heating units are turned on and the dust level of the indoor air is increased. If this is in truth a factor it would be helpful to have a thorough fall cleaning instead of, or in addition to, the customary spring cleaning.

Besides soot and lint, house dust often contains a variety of molds. One of these, Candida albicans, the mold that causes thrush, has been found to be especially bad for asthmatics. Treatment with the antifungal agents used against thrush are, however, of no use in the treatment of asthmatic attacks from this cause.

A recent study conducted in Iowa has suggested that some germ or virus present in asthmatics may be transmitted from person to person as a result of prolonged close contact. For example, some persons who had no previous allergies developed them after 10 to 30 years with a marital partner who was asthmatic.

Furthermore, asthma was found to develop more frequently in children when the mother, with whom contact is closer, was asthmatic than when the father was afflicted. It was also more common in siblings who occupied the same bed than in those who slept in separate beds.

A treatment for asthmatic attacks that has recently become very popular is inhalation through the mouth of isoproterenol and similar drugs in an aerosol. One puff usually gives relief within 30 seconds but, when it doesn't, more harm than good is likely to result from taking a series of puffs at short intervals. Therefore, if you are using an aerosol for your asthma, be sure to follow the instructions on the label.

THE BORN LOSER

By ART SANSON

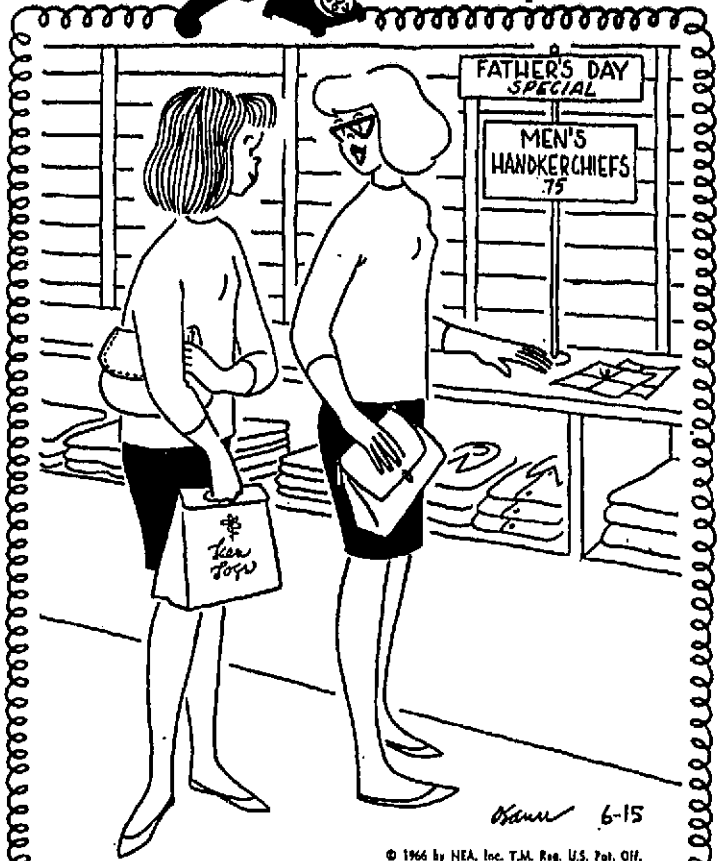

The oldest organized sport in America is lacrosse. It is the name given by the French settlers of Canada to the old Indian game of baggataway, "because the curved netted stick resembles a bishop's crozier." It was played by the six nations of the Iroquois before Columbus landed in the new world in 1492.

Oswald asks: "What do you think of the idea that every bridge player should have a special window to throw contracts out of?"

Jim: "On today's hand South sure used one. He was lucky to be allowed to play four spades. Most West players would have taken a five-heart save and might well have pushed South one trick higher."

Oswald: "Five hearts would only go down one trick. It looks as if four spades is unbeatable in spite of the bad trump break. How did South find the window?"

Jim: "It was a matter of accepting a gift from East. South ruffed the second heart and played his ace of spades. West dropped a heart and South decided there was no harm trying out the diamond suit. He played three rounds of diamonds. East ruffed the third high diamond with the eight of trumps. South over-ruffed with the jack and played ace and one club."

Oswald: "This put East in with the queen for the second defensive trick. What did East do then?"

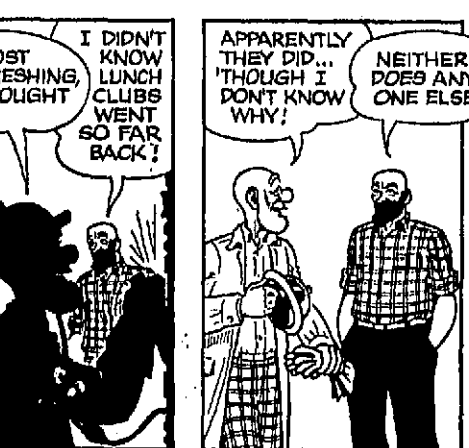

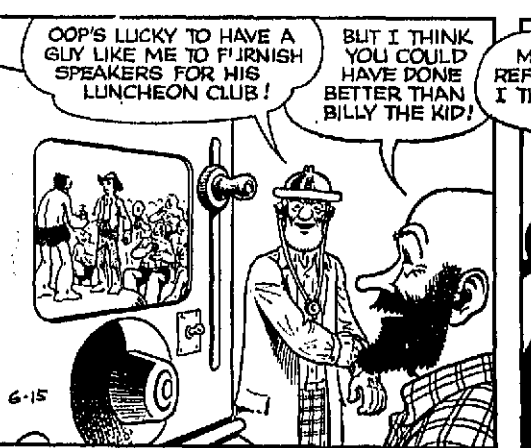

Jim: "He led back the nine of spades. South was delighted to let it ride to dummy's ten. East had made him a present of a trump trick but when South accepted the gift he lost his contract. He was in dummy with the ten of trumps and had no way to avoid the loss of two tricks later on."

Oswald: "If South had won the trick with his king of trumps he would have led a third club toward dummy and ruffed out West's king. If East over-ruffed, South's hand would be good. If East discarded South would ruff one of dummy's diamonds and discard the other on a good club. East would make his queen of trumps but South would make his contract."

Bount With A Telephonic

That old telephone harassment game is still going strong in Batesville — and Yours Truly was victimized Saturday night. These telephonic harassers have singled me out before but have never been so persistent.

In case you have been missed by these calling kooks, here is the way they operate:

Your phone rings, you answer, but the caller remains silent. About 30 or 40 seconds — and sometimes ten to twenty minutes — after you hang up, the phone rings again. More silence from the other end of the line, and you suddenly realize this unfunny joker has selected you as a target.

Chances are, the maddening routine will continue until you quit answering the phone.

In my business, I can't very well afford to ignore a ringing telephone or to take the phone off the hook. Just as sure as I did, someone would try to get in touch with me concerning an emergency — an important news development, for example.

Therefore, the anonymous keeps had me over a barrel and they continued to ring my number, intermittently, for nearly three and one-half hours, from 7:30 until about 11:45 p.m.

At one point during all this devilment, the phone rang the upenth time about 30 seconds after the Silent One had disturbed me. Somewhat hacked off by the dimwit's penchant for overdoing a bad joke, I picked up the receiver and quickly blurted out: "This call is being traced" — and hung up in rapid fire order.

But lo and behold, the next morning I learned that the last-mentioned call was from a friend who was seeking my services as a justice of the peace to perform a ceremony for a couple wanting to be married. I apologized for my rudeness and explained the situation, although he told me he realized what was happening.

The part that puzzles me about these crank calls is, how in the name of sin can these pranksters get pleasure or thrills or "kicks" out of this kind of activity? It could be they are slightly off their rockers, if that's the only past-time they have.

At any rate, the best way to thwart these nuisance callers is this: When your phone rings and you get the silent treatment, on two calls in quick succession, leave the receiver off the hook for awhile.

Texas Lashed by Strong Wind, Rains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Violent weather pounded Texas today as storms loosed strong winds, hail and rain. The Weather Bureau said tornadoes touched down near the Texas towns of Pampa and Dumas, causing some property damage.

Hail the size of large pears fell in Pampa, along with rain that measured more than 2 inches.

Winds gusted up to 75 miles per hour near Amarillo, Tex. Thunderstorms moved across the South and from the south-west Plains to the Missouri Valley.

Industrial Bonds Gain Approval

POCAHONTAS, Ark. (AP)—Pocahontas voters approved by a 366-4 margin Tuesday two Act 9 industrial bond issues totaling $3.5 million.

A $2.5 million issue is for Cinch Manufacturing Co., which produces electronics components; and a $1 million issue will help Aircraft Engineering Corp. Buy equipment for the plant it is building at the Pocahontas Airport.

LRU Grants

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Office of Education has approved a $14,460 grant to Little Rock University and a $7,649 grant to Philander Smith College at Little Rock. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Tuesday.

Another Riot at Chicago Is Broken Up

By JAMES E. DWYER
CHICAGO (AP)—Five hundred policemen removed more than 2,000 persons from riot-torn streets in a predominantly Puerto Rican area Tuesday night and arrested 31.

Told to "clear the streets and do it with a smile," police held disturbances to a minimum after two nights of rioting.

The arrest brought to 112 the number of persons taken into custody since the rioting began Sunday after a Puerto Rican youth was shot and wounded by a policeman. The policeman said the youth pulled a gun as the officer tried to break up a fight.

Eleven of the arrests were made 13 blocks from the scene of the riot Monday night when two homemade bombs were thrown at a police car. The car was not hit.

Police strategy Tuesday night was to stop trouble before it could germinate. Groups were not allowed to form. The arrests were made during brief and isolated rock-throwing episodes.

By 11 p.m. the West Division Street area—used as a basis for novels by author Nelson Algren—was peaceful. Two hours earlier, 2,000 persons milled through the streets on a clear, pleasant night.

Incumbent in S. Carolina Is Rejected

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
South Carolina voters overwhelmingly rejected incumbent Democratic Sen. Donald S. Russell in Tuesday's primary balloting in favor of former Gov. Ernest F. (Fritz) Hollings. But incumbent Illinois Democrats won re-election in the nation's other primary.

Both Senate seats were up for renomination in South Carolina. Besides the Russell-Hollings race, Democratic State Sen. Bradley Morrah won a landslide victory over attorney John Bolt Culbertson, who ran as a pro-civil rights candidate.

Hollings will face State Sen. Marshall Parker, who switched from the Democratic party to the GOP earlier this year, in the November election. At stake is the two-year unexpired term of Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., who died last year. Russell was named to replace Johnston.

Morrah will take on incumbent Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond this fall for a full six-year term.

Tuesday's balloting for Hollings and Morrah was not limited to Democrats, since voters are not registered by party in South Carolina.

The Illinois election was enlivened by two bitter Democratic primary races on Chicago's South Side — both won by incumbents backed by Mayor Richard J. Daley.

In the 1st District, Rep. William L. Dawson, at 80 a long-time leader of Chicago's South Side Negro population, easily defeated two other Negro contenders. One of his challengers, social worker Fred Hubbard, 36, was endorsed by many civil rights groups.

Black Sambo Book Stays on Shelves

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A request by a Negro group to take the children's book, "Little Black Sambo," off the shelves of the city's libraries has been rejected by the Seattle Library Board.

Wayne Booth, president of the board, said the story of a native boy in India outwitting hungry tigers has no racial overtones.

Booth said the request of the Central Area Action Committee amounted to an attempt to censor books in the city's libraries. The board rejected the request Tuesday.

Keve Bray, executive director of the group which sought the book ban, said the story is derogatory of Negroes.

Better Let Things Stay Like They Are

By HAL BOYLE
"YOURVILLE, U.S.A. (AP)—"Wilbur, did you know that you are just a crippled female?" said Trellis Mae Peeble, America's most average housewife. "Says who?" yawned her husband from the sofa.

"Says Dr. Marvin Jeffreys of South Africa—that's who," replied Trellis Mae.

"Who he?" asked Wilbur. "He's a 78-year-old anthropologist. It says right here in the newspaper that he believes men are 'crippled females' and naturally inferior to women."

"In what way?" inquired Wilbur, his male pride aroused. "Well, he says men don't live as long as women, commit more suicides, and have to go to the booby hatch more often. He says that women are even 13 times safer than men at driving."

"He must be talking about driving ox carts, not automobiles," mumbled Wilbur.

"Dr. Jeffreys also says women are more intelligent than men because their brains are larger in proportion to their body weight," continued Trellis Mae inexorably.

"Let me see that newspaper," said Wilbur.

Wilbur frowned as he began to read the article. But as he read on the frown relaxed. A smile took its place.

"Hey, you know, this guy's got something at that," he announced, handing her back the paper.

"Well, honey, when you buy an insurance policy be sure and read all the fine print," said Wilbur loftily. "You didn't finish what Dr. Jeffreys had to say."

"Like what?" "Well, he says that since women are mentally abler and physically more durable than men they ought to take better care of men."

"In what way?" "Well, wives ought to mow the lawn. And wash the family car."

LBJ Launches Appeal for Medical Help

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson is expected to appeal to the nation's medical leaders today for their help in launching medicare successfully on July 1.

Johnson also is expected to tell the physicians, at a White House meeting, that the government is counting on their ethical leadership to prevent abuses that could overload hospitals.

The President called the one-day conference of administration officials and 300 officers of national and state medical and hospital associations to review the almost-completed plans for the universal health insurance system.

Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner was expected to announce at the conference the latest tally on how many of the country's approximately 7,500 general hospitals have enrolled in medicare and met the test of compliance with the Civil Rights Act.

The secretary said last week that 5,511 had met the no-racial-discrimination rule so far. He predicted that virtually all the others would be in compliance by July 1.

But officials are concerned that hospitals and physicians set up workable procedures to insure that patients do not occupy hospital beds after they could be discharged, or after they have recovered to the point at which visiting-nurse or nursing-home care would suffice.

The administration also hopes to enlist the help of hospitals, and medical groups in making sure that elderly citizens understand that medicare is only for the sick — that patients will be admitted to hospitals only upon the decision of doctors, and that medicare may not be used for rest or custodial care.

Even greater vigilance will be needed, some officials predicted, after nursing-home care is added to the benefits next Jan. 1.

Persons who are in nursing homes merely for custodial care or because of chronic conditions needing minimal treatment are not qualified for nursing-home benefits. The medicare law requires that three days of hospitalization precede transfer to a nursing home.

But hospitals report many physicians already have been asked to arrange three days of hospitalization for elderly occupants of nursing homes so that medicare will pick up much of the bill for the next 100 days of nursing home care.

The government hopes also for vigorous efforts by doctors and hospitals to disseminate information on what medicare does not provide, as well as what it does.

Lull in War Believe Only Temporary

SAIGON (AP)—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky toured the now quiet Konum battlefield today and said he believed the fighting there was the start of the Communist moonsoon offensive.

The South Vietnamese leader praised American paratroopers for smashing the North Vietnamese 24th Regiment and said the battle damaged Hanoi's plans for a rainy-season campaign.

Even as he talked with newsmen at a front-line U.S. headquarters at Dak To, however, there were intelligence reports of fresh North Vietnamese regiments menacing that central highlands area.

These reports said that the 88th and 34th Regiments, some 3,000 men, had crossed eastward into South Viet Nam from staging areas in Laos and were digging in for a drive during the monsoon rains that could hamper U.S. air power.

The two new regiments were thought to be the forward "pinpoint" troops of a larger force of North Vietnamese army regulars massed in mountains in Cambodia and Laos.

ALC Meets Friday at Washington

The Arkansas Legislative Council will hold its regular monthly meeting in Washington at 11:00 a.m. Friday, June 17.

The Legislative Council is a joint interim committee of the Arkansas House and Senate, consisting of 24 members named at each regular session. The Legislative Council is the research and fact finding arm of the Legislature which functions between legislative sessions. This will be the first visit of the Legislative Council to historic Washington.

Members of the Council will be guests at a luncheon sponsored by the Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation at 1:00 p.m. following the Council meeting. A tour of the Confederate Capitol Building and other historic buildings in Washington will be conducted following the luncheon.

Since the Legislative Council serves as the pre-session budget committee of the legislature and submits to each legislative session recommendations for budgets to support the various state agencies and departments the visit to Washington will afford an excellent opportunity for the members of the Council to obtain a first hand view of the Confederate Capitol Building which is supported by a state appropriation.

Mixup and Negroes Fail to Register

By DON MCKEE
GRENADA, Miss. (AP)—Officials held clerks at the Grenada County courthouse until 8:30 Tuesday night for Negro voter registrants. Only six came.

"Let the clerks go home," decided civil rights leaders who had led the Mississippi march into Grenada.

No one told some 250 Negroes meeting in a church. They marched to the courthouse only to find the office closed.

"If we can't register (sic), we're going to demonstrate," they chanted.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and other Negro leaders huddled with officials in a doorway. Then, standing at the base of a Confederate statue, King asked the crowd to leave. "I ask you to be out tomorrow in larger numbers," he said.
